Opportunities For Giving

General Gifts - These gifts are used for the Foundation's projects as determined by its Board of Directors.

Designated Gifts - The donor directs, as a condition of the gift, how it is to be used. (e.g. a memorial scholarship or a particular piece of woodland).

Installment gifts - The donor agrees to make annual contributions of a specific amount to fund a particular Foundation program.

Bequest - Leaving a gift to the Foundation by will.

How To Give

Current Gifts - Includes cash, checks, money orders, or drafts. Checks or money orders should be made payable to "Indiana Forestry Educational Foundation", and mailed to the Foundation at 5578 S, 500W, Atlanta, IN 46031-9363

Real or Personal Property includes any type of real estate, whether commercial, residential or agricultural, along with equipment, art objects or collections. Contact the Foundation office prior to making a gift of real or personal property. A written description of the proposed gift property would be very helpful, along with its location in the case of real property.

Deferred Gifts - These gifts generally require careful planning by the donor and the Foundation to assure maximum benefit. Again, persons interested in making a Deferred Gift should contact the foundation office. Examples of Deferred Gifts are trusts, life insurance, certain types of real property and bequests by will.
